As of April 2022, the Minnesota Attorney General filed a lawsuit against Wolf River Electric, along with several other solar companies, alleging deceptive sales practices including misrepresenting cost savings, using high-pressure tactics, and tricking consumers into signing binding contracts, leading to many homeowners facing significant financial burdens from poorly installed solar panels that did not deliver promised energy savings; the case is still ongoing and details regarding its current status may be found on the Minnesota Attorney General's website. 🔗

Key points about the lawsuit:

Allegations:

The lawsuit accuses Wolf River Electric of misleading customers about the cost savings of solar panels, using aggressive sales tactics, and failing to properly install systems.

Consumer impact:

Many Minnesota homeowners who signed contracts with Wolf River Electric reported facing high hidden fees, delayed installations, and solar panels that did not perform as advertised.

Current status:

The lawsuit is still ongoing, and details regarding its progress can be found on the Minnesota Attorney General's website. 🔗
